INTRODUCTION

A Genealogy of the Drew Family was started by my father, Elbert G. Drew, in the early 1900s and was distributed to the family at Christmas time, 1913. He made revisions in 1927.

He acknowledged the assistance of Dr. C. W. Drew, of Minneapolis, a member of another branch of the family (New York), in obtaining the early ancestry of the Drews. He spent many hours at the Newberry Library, Chicago, confirming facts and delving into old records.

He was also aided by Mr. N. W. Davis of Winchester, Mass., whose mother was a Drew (our lines join at Jedidiah, in the fifth generation).

The present volume is based on the revised version of the original, and is the result of many years of correspondence, study and record keeping. Many members of the family aided in supplying material for this book. The pleasure of numerous personal visits relieved the burden and stimulated its completion.

Contributions from the following members of the family have made possible the printing of this book:

CHAPTER I

NAME AND CREST OF THE DREW FAMILY

Sir Bernard Burke, Ulster King of Arms, in his Heraldic Register about 1850, p. 27, says:

"The preamble to the Drew pedigree, as arranged by Sir William Petham, Ulster King of Arms, and given under his official seal, attests that the ancient and knightly family of Drew, of Devonshire, are the lineal descendants of Drogo, or Dru, a noble Norman, son of Walter de Ponz and brother to Richard, ancestor of the Cliffords."

He further states in his "Landed Gentry," Fifth Edition, and in his "Authorized Arms" published in 1860, that this Walter de Ponz (father of Drogo) was the third son of Richard, Duke of Normandy, grandfather of the Conqueror, and that said Walter accompanied William the Conqueror into England.

Drogo had seventy-three manors in Devon at the time of the Domesday Survey made under the Conqueror in 1086. On one of these, Hagintone, now called Hayne, in the parish of Newton St. Cyres, was settled, and his descendants have lived in the vicinity for centuries.

Drogo, one of his descendants, or Dru de Tign, Lord of Tington Drew, lived in Devon in the reign of Henry II, 1154-1189. Sir William Pole states "he both gave bane and took name from that manor." This branch includes the Drews of Sharpham, the Grange, and Kyllerton, Devonshire.

Recently (1961) Elizabeth Harriet Drew and her son Charles discovered a tiny village in Devon named DREWSTEIGNTON, where an inn called The Drewe Arms displayed the heraldic device used in this book. They brought home a photograph of an impressive estate named Castle Drogo, which is near the town.

Risdon, an English authority, states that the name Drogo or Drago "by time's continuance was mollified into DREW and it has flourished with great reputation in the county of Devon from the Norman Conquest to the present time."

Drews were mayors of Exeter in 1586 and 1626, and marriage licenses recorded Drew marriages in Exeter and London in the 16th century. We know that Edwarde Drewe was "Sergeant at Law" to Queen Elizabeth and saved her life from an assassin in 1589.

We know that his son, Sir Thomas Drew, Sheriff of Devon, sold his father's estate about 1640. We know that William Drew was born in Devonshire in 1623 and came to America in 1648. It is likely that he was a younger son or a nephew of Edwarde Drewe, who received the crest of Arms.

The Crest of Arms granted to Edwarde Drew is reproduced on page iii. It was photographed from Devon Notes and Queries, Vol. 5, a Devonshire monthly magazine published in England, which may be seen at Newberry Library, Chicago.

The grant was worded in court language, describing the gallantries, virtue and nobleness which deserved such recognition, and conferring unto "Edwarde Drewe of Killerton, in the Countie of Devon, Esquire, Sergeant at the Law, and at present, Recorder of the City of London," the right to use the crest on shield, coat of arms, or otherwise, the same right belonging to his posterity forever.

The grant was signed and sealed by Robert Cooke, Clarenceaux King of Arms, "the seventh day of May, 1593, and in the 35th year of the reign of our most gracious sovereign lady, Queen Elizabeth."

The crest was elaborate and colorful. Later it was modified and registered in The General Armory by Sir B. Burke, Ulster King of Arms, England, as it appears below.

COLONIAL SETTLEMENTS

I. WILLIAM DREW (1) 1623-1669

WILLIAM DREW, born in Devonshire, England, in 1623, is considered to be the founder of a long branch of the Drew family. He emigrated to America at some time prior to 1648, for in that year he appears on the first tax list of Dover, N.H. as an owner of land on the south side of Oyster River.

In those days England was in a sad state. Charles I was king and war between religious factions had raged for several years. Finally the forces of Cromwell, who stood for religious freedom and popular government, were victorious, and Charles I was sentenced to death. The Puritans were strong opponents of the corruption in church and state, and were constantly urging their adherents to leave England and settle in the new world. Life there seemed less hazardous at that time than life in the England torn by internal strife and insecure government.

It is likely that William Drew was a Puritan, for he settled among them. On Aug. 10, 1653, there were granted to William Drew 60 acres of upland, on the north side of Branson's Creek, adjoining his marsh. The name of William Drew appears on the tax lists of Dover in 1659, 1661, 1662, 1663 and 1666. He deceded the above property to his son, Francis, in 1669.

He married Elizabeth Mathews (or Mathes) probably soon after he settled in Dover, about 1648. She was born in 1623, in Devonshire, daughter of Francis and Thomasine Channon Mathews, who were married at Ottery, St. Mary, Devonshire, England. Elizabeth was baptized there Dec. 27, 1623. The family came to America with Capt. John Mason's colony in 1634 and helped to build the mills at Great Works, now South Berwick, Maine. Later Francis Mathews' name appears on property grants in and around Durham, N.H., and the family became prosperous and prominent. Francis Mathews died in 1618, his wife in 1690.

William built a log house on his property. He fortified it against the Indians and kept guns at hand for defense. He built boats, engaged in fishing and farming, and enjoyed his family. He died at Oyster River in April, 1669, at the age of 46.

The inventory of his estate shows a dwelling house, one cannon, two fishing boats named "Hopewell" and "Increase" (both named after ships in which many emigrants came from England), a vast amount of fishing equipment. The house and its property were deceded to his son, Francis. The widow, Elizabeth, inherited the other property, including a male and female "servant," a polite word for slave.

Later Elizabeth married William Follett, date unknown. On June 20, 1689, the estate of William Drew was conveyed to his brother Thomas by William Follett and Elizabeth, and it eventually reached the hands of John Drew, son of William.

2. THOMAS DREW (1) 1632-1694

THOMAS DREW, brother of William Drew, was born in Devonshire, England, and probably came to America with his brother in or before 1643. Records show that he purchased land on the little Bay Shore near Drew's Point in 1653.

He inherited the estate of his brother William on June 20, 1680, when it was deeded to him by William and Elizabeth Mathews (Drew) Follett. William had died in 1669. We have no explanation for the complicated handling of William's estate.

Thomas Drew was killed by the Indians in the massacre of 1694. See page 6. His widow, Mary, later married Richard Elliott, and quit claim to his estate in favor of John Drew, son of William, on Nov. 15, 1706.

3. FRANCIS DREW (2) 1648-1694

FRANCIS DREW, son of William and Elizabeth Mathews Drew, was born at Oyster River, near Dover, N.H., in 1648. He married Lydia Bickford, probably before 1669. His father deeded the log garrison and property to him. We assume that he and his family were living there at the time of the Oyster River massacre of July 18, 1694.

He surrendered to the Indians on promise of quarter. Breaking loose from his captors he escaped towards the Adams garrison, but was overtaken by the Indians and killed with tomahawks. (See page 6)

His wife was carried away captive, but was rendered so feeble with hunger that she was left to die in the woods.

Administration of his estate was granted to his brother, John Drew, Nov. 16, 1694, but the probate records show that "Whereas Thomas Drew, surviving son and eldest unto the aforesaid Francis, deceased, is now returned out of the hands of the Indian enemy and claims administration upon his father's estate" his claim was granted Nov. 16, 1696.

Children:

Thomas, b. about 1672 (see below)

Francis, b. 1682(?) m. June 3, 1713 to Ann Wingate, d. May 10, 1717

John, escaped through a window at the Oyster River Massacre of 1694

Benjamin, b. 1685, killed by the Indians, 1694

Mary, shown in administration papers.

THOMAS DREW (3), eldest son of Francis and Lydia Bickford Drew, was born about 1672 at Oyster River, N.H.

He was married early in 1694 and with his wife, Tamsen, was living with his father in the Drew garrison at the time of the massacre, July 18, 1694.

Thomas and Tamsen were both captured. He was taken to Canada and she to Norridgewoc, Maine. They were both returned, however, before November, 1696, and after being reunited they lived at Little Bay and had fourteen children.

Tamsen Drew's deposition concerning her captivity was taken at Boston May 23, 1698, to be used against the Indian Bombazeen, who was then in prison; also the deposition of Ann Jenkins, who stated that Nicholas Frost, Sarah Braginton, Tamsen Drew and herself, were freed by the French minister called Price Waxway, who bought them from the Indians. *1

The records of Rev. Hugh Adams of Oyster River show that Thomas Drew and his wife Tamsen were admitted to the church, March 3, 1727. Thomas Drew paid a tax of 419 and his son Thomas a tax of 153 at Dover in 1733. *2

Tamsen Drew died at Durham, N.H. at the age of 89 and Thomas followed soon after at the age of 90. The place where they lived was later owned by James Kent, and the old burial ground is still to be seen (1913) where Thomas and Tamsen and some of their children are buried.

The names of all their children have not been preserved, but we have record of the following:

- Infant killed by Indians while mother was captive
- Francis, baptized by Rev. Hugh Adams, April 5, 1727
- Thomas, baptized by Rev. Hugh Adams, April 5, 1727
- Elijah, baptized by Rev. Hugh Adams, April 5, 1727
- Tamsen, baptized by Rev. Hugh Adams, April 5, 1727
- Martha, baptized by Rev. Hugh Adams, April 5, 1727
- Abigail, baptized by Rev. Hugh Adams, April 5, 1727
- Mary, baptized by Rev. Hugh Adams, April 5, 1727
- 11. John, baptized by Rev. Hugh Adams, Aug. 6, 1727
- Ruth, baptized by Rev. Hugh Adams, Aug. 6, 1727
- 12. Joseph, b. 1704

12. JOSEPH DREW (4), son of Thomas and Tamsen Drew, was born at Oyster River in 1704. He and his wife, Elizabeth, lived in Durham, N.H., and were both living on Dec. 21, 1790.

Joseph Drew furnished part of the account of the Oyster River massacre which was used by Dr. Jeremy Belknap in the "History of New Hampshire" mentioned above, especially the data about the Drew family and their connection with the massacre, which must have been told again and again by his parents.

THE OYSTER RIVER MASSACRE

July 18, 1694

from The History of New Hampshire, by Jeremy Belknap, D.D., published in 1813.

"Here there were twelve garrisoned houses sufficient for the defence of the inhabitants, but apprehending no danger, some families remained at their own unfortified houses, and those who were in the garrisons were indifferently provided for defence, some being even destitute of powder . . .

"Of the twelve garrisoned houses five were destroyed, viz. Adams's, Drew's, Edgerly's, Medar's and Beard's. They entered Adams's without resistance, where they killed fourteen persons. They were all buried in one grave. Drew surrendered his garrison on the promise of security, but was murdered when he fell into their hands: one of his children, a boy of nine years old, was made to run through a lane of Indians as a mark for them to throw their hatchets at, till they had dispatched him."

4. JOHN DREW (2)

JOHN DREW, son of William and Elizabeth Mathews Drew, was born at Oyster River in 1651. He settled on the west side of Dover Neck, N.H., about 1675, where he engaged in the cooperage business. In 1680 he purchased of William Follett, his step-father, lot 15 of the Back River grants, where he erected a house. In 1696 he bought lot 14 of William Brackstone. In 1697 he bought 20 acres at the "Dead Pines" from Zachariah Pitman. In 1698 he bought 20 acres adjoining lot 14 and also lot 16 from Robert Huckins. In 1702 he bought lot 17 from William Pomfret and 20 acres from Israel Hodgden.

He was a man of wealth and property. In 1706 he acquired his father's estate at Oyster River, N.H., after it had passed through the hands of William Follet and his uncle, Thomas Drew.

John Drew was a Selectman of Dover in 1701 and became a sergeant then a lieutenant in the military organization of the province.

His wife's name was Sarah, they were married about 1675 and had three children. He died in 1711.

Children:

Sarah, b. about 1676. m. Jan. 16. 1707 to John Field, Dover

Elizabeth, b. about 1680, m. Love Roberts, Dover

6. John, b. about 1683

5. THOMAS DREW (2)

b. 1660?

THOMAS DREW, youngest (fourth) son of William and Elizabeth Mathews Drew, was born at Oyster River, N.H., probably about 1660. He married Mary Bunker, fourth child of James and Sarah Bunker, who was born probably about 1662.

Thomas and Mary Bunker Drew probably had a number of children, but the only one we know about was Marie Anne, who was born in 1694. Indian raids on the settlers continued and in 1707 the little 13 year old girl was captured by the Indians while playing with a friend in or near the Bunker garrison.

After many years it was learned that she had been taken to Canada, had been baptized there in 1709 and had become a naturalized citizen of Canada in 1713.

6. JOHN DREW (3) 1683-1723

Descent: 4. John Drew
Sarah —

1. William Drew
Elizabeth Mathews

JOHN DREW, son of John and Sarah Drew, was born about 1683 at Back River, N.H. He married Elizabeth Hepley of Portsmouth, N.H., May 24, 1705. He married, second, Rebecca Cook, about 1708. We do not know what happened, but their marriage was not legalized in accordance with the laws of the province until May 31, 1720—and by this time they had four children. There seems to have been considerable agitation over the subject.

We assume that John inherited his father's lands, being the only son, and lived in a log house similar to the log garrisons which were built at this time. He died at Back River Oct. 23, 1723. His will was dated Jan. 31, 1721, and was proved Dec. 4, 1723. He was buried in the Drew burying ground near the old garrison, and his headstone could still be seen there as recently as 1913.

Children:

- Hannah, b. Feb. 26, 1709
- 7. John, 2nd, b. Oct. 18, 1712, m. Patience Bunker and settled in Middleton, N.H.
- 8. Abigail, b. June 21, 1714, m. James Bibber and settled in Harpswell, Maine

  - Francis, b. Aug. 9, 1720, d. Feb. 16, 1727
  - Zebulon, b. Nov. 9, 1721
- 10. Lemuel, b. May 27, 1723 (see below)

8. ABIGAIL DREW (4) b. 1714

ABIGAIL DREW, daughter of John and Rebecca Cook Drew, was born June 21, 1714 at Back River, N.H. She married James Bibber and they settled in Harpswell, Maine. They had a daughter Abigail, and probably several other children.

ABIGAIL BIBBER (5), daughter of James and Abigail Drew Bibber, married Jacob Johnson and they continued to live at Harpswell, Maine. It is said that she scared away a pack of Indians there while her husband and sons were off to have the grain ground. She had at least one daughter and we assume her name was Abigail.

ABIGAIL JOHNSON (6), daughter of Jacob and Abigail Bibber Johnson, married a man named York and they lived at Farmington, Maine. Her grandson, Samuel York (8), married Ellen Augusta Drew, a descendant of John and Rebecca Cook Drew through their son, Lemuel. See p. 24.

CHAPTER III

GARRISONS and HISTORICAL SITES

A Map of Hilton's Point and Dover Neck Village for the period from 1623 to 1723 were completed in 1915 by Charles W. Hayes, Civil Engineer and John Scales, Historian. This map was used as a basis for the map of Dover with guide lines added by Elbert G. Drew, genealogist, and reproduced on page 9.

DREW'S Point, on the west side of Oyster River, was the site of the original Drew garrison built by William Drew, burned down by the Indians in the massacre of 1694. Evidently the sons of John Drew settled near the old home. for a certain deed made Sept. 7, 1738 by John Downing and wife conveyed 50 acres of land in Durham "beginning at Oyster River near ye pint cald Drew's Point," etc.

DREW'S Marsh was mentioned in some legal depositions dated Aug. 1, 1776, made by Stephen Pinkham and others, who testified that the marsh had long been owned by the Dews of Back River.

DREW'S Hill, a steep hill in the Back River district about a mile below Sawyer's bridge across the Bellamy River, is mentioned in a deed Nov. 22, 1698, when John Loughton of Rochester sold Shadrach Hodgdon 20 acres on the west side of Back River. This tract later was owned by John Drew, son of William.

A landing place is mentioned in the Town records March 13, 1723: "At a meeting of Selectmen liberty was given to John Parell of Dover to keep a ferry over the Back River from his house or landing place to the landing place of John Drew, and for his service he was to receive one penny for every inhabitant carried over the river and two pence for strangers."

The Drew Garrison stood on a hill about half a mile from Back River. It was surrounded by a stockade, which remained standing for about thirty years. It is believed the garrison was built about 1675, surviving the Indian raids of 1694 and after. It is believed that this garrison was built by Deacon John Dam for his son William.

It was built of massive hewn logs, twenty feet long and more, making the house forty feet long by twenty-two feet wide. The large garret afforded ample room for the family beds. Portholes were always ready with guns to protect it.

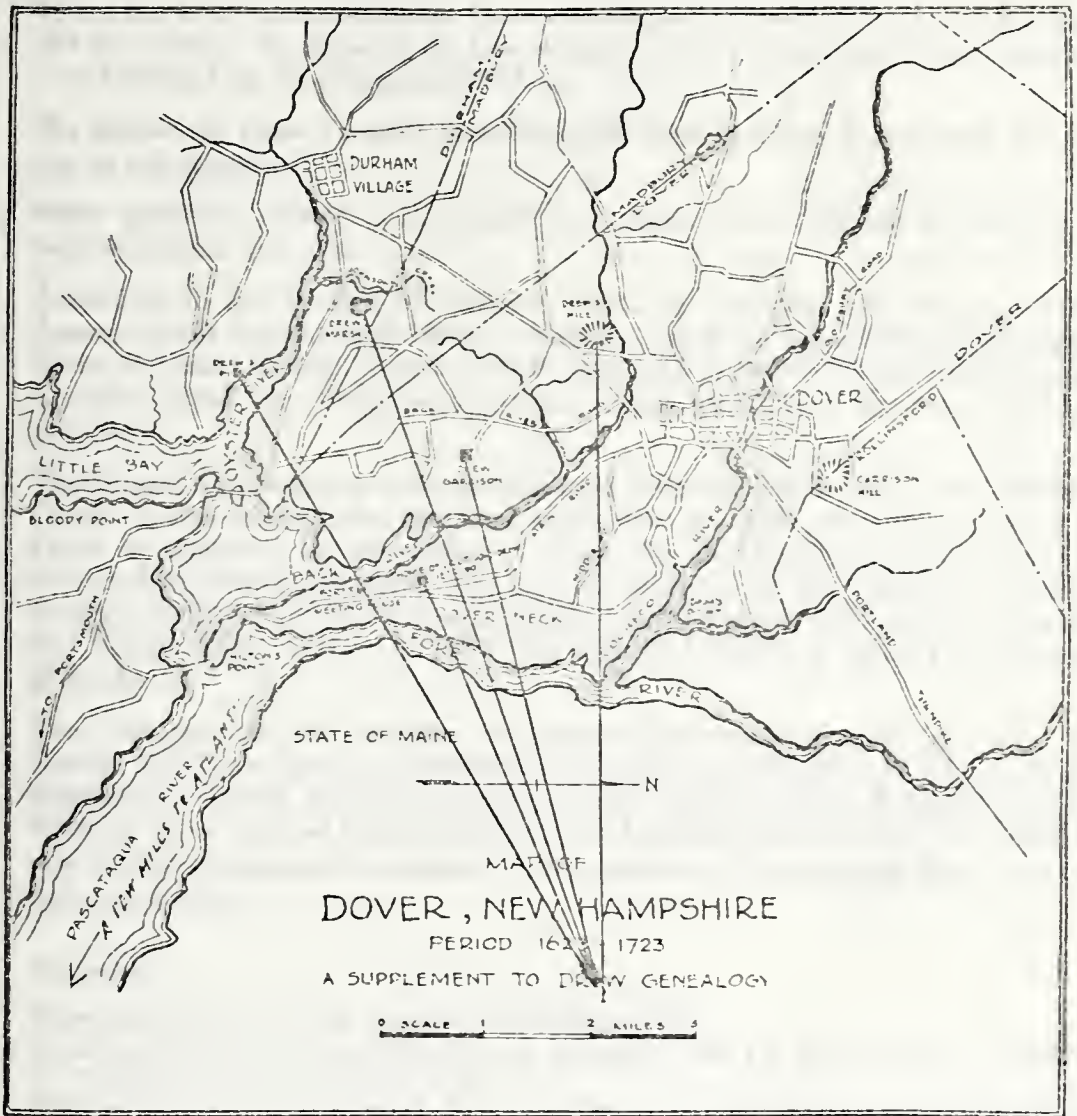

The garrison remained in the possession of the Dam family for about 100 years, and was known at that time as the Dam Garrison.

It came into the possession of the Drew family in 1771 when a descendant of the Dam family, Leah Nute, married Joseph Drew. It remained in the possession of Drew descendants for 112 years and during that time it was known as the Drew Garrison.

It is probable that Joseph Drew was born about 1745 and was the son of H. John Drew and the grandson of Thomas and Tamsen Drew.

After 1883 the garrison became a place of interest, and it was owned by Mr. Holmes B. Rounds, whose mother was descended from Joseph and Leah Nute

From a map of Dover Neck Village completed in 1915 by Charles W. Hayes, Civil Engineer and John Scales, Historian

Drew. After his death in 1916 Mrs. Rounds arranged for its preservation in the Woodman Institute in Dover, N.H., where it can be visited and appreciated by many.

There has been some confusion about the original builder of the Drew garrison. We now believe the above is the true version, and we know that a Drew garrison was destroyed by the Indians in 1694.

We believe the Drew garrison stood near the Dam garrison at that time, but was not as well defended.

Other garrisons existed in the vicinity, of course. One that has interest for us was the Bunker Garrison.

According to the History of Durham, N.H., by Stackpole and Meserve, 1913. James Bunker bought land below Johnson's Creek on the north side of Oyster River in 1652. His will, dated 14 Oct. 1697 and probated 24 June 1693, names his wife, Sarah, and three sons, James, Joseph, and John. He also had Mary and Sarah.

The Bunker Garrison was built on this land, near the Madbury line on Bunker's Creek. It was successfully defended at the raid in 1694, when 91 persons were killed or captured by the Indians. After this the Governor sent soldiers to various houses and garrisons. The account rendered by the Oyster River people for their maintenance of soldiers included—James Bunker for 1 soldier, 18 weeks 03: 12:00. This was Oct. 4, 1697. On Feb. 5, 1695-96, 3 soldiers were posted at Bunker's.

Near this garrison the daughter of Thomas Drew was captured in 1707. The Bunker and Drew families obviously lived in the same vicinity and intermarried frequently. In the fourth generation John Drew married Patience Bunker. Rebecca Drew married Clement Bunker and Lemuel Drew married Anna Bunker, and in the next generation Sobriety Drew, daughter of Lemuel and Anna, married Ephraim Bunker.

EIGHTEENTH CENTURY CHANGES

10. LEMUEL DREW (4)

1723-1759

Descent: 6. John Drew
Rebecca Cook

4. John Drew,

LEMUEL DREW, youngest child of John and Rebecca Cook Drew, was born May 27, 1723 at Back Bay, Dover, N.H.

He married Anna Bunker about 1745, daughter of Joseph and Anna Giles Bunker. Her grandfather, Mark Giles, was a soldier in Queen Anne's War (1701-13) and was constable of Dover in 1710.

Lemuel was a soldier in King George's War (1744-48) between the English and French, enlisting as a Volunteer in Capt. Ichabod Tibbetts' Company May 31, 1744. He acted as a guide against the Indians.

Lemuel was also a soldier in the "Old French" or "Seven Years' War" (1754-63) and served as a private in Col. Nathaniel Meserve's regiment which was sent in 1756 against the French at Lake Champlain. Details of the expedition may be found in "Diary of Moses Kelsey" in the N.H. Granite State Magazine, Vol. II, p. 95. Kelsey was the company's quartermaster.

Lemuel and Anna lived in close proximity to the old Drew Garrison. Dover records show that he paid parish rates of 6 shillings, 6 pence, at Back River, 1753. Lemuel died Sept. 25, 1759, aged 36. Later his widow married Joseph Stevenson.

The children of Lemuel and Anna, all born at Back River, N.H., were:

14. Jedidiah, b. Nov. 4, 1748

Jonathan, b. Mar. 20, 1750

Sobriety, b. May 15, 1752, m. Ephraim Bunker

Temperance, b. Mar. 15, 1755, m. Jacob Hodgdon

15. Andrew, b. Mar. 25, 1758, m. Joanna Hodgdon

He was a soldier in the Revolutionary War, serving in Pascataqua Harbor and Rhode Island Campaign under Gen. Sullivan, and taking part in the Battle of Newport. He moved from Back River to Brookfield, N.H., in 1783, thence to Durham in 1817. He died Dec. 19, 1854, at Durham. We know he had at least one son, John, whose name appears in court records regarding property of 14. Jedidiah Drew. John was deceased by 1817.

CHAPTER I. THE FUNDAMENTAL CONCEPTS

SECTION I. THE REAL NUMBERS

ARTICLE I. THE NATURAL NUMBERS

DEFINITION I.

ARTICLE II.

ARTICLE III.

The natural numbers are those numbers which can be obtained by starting from the number 1 and adding the number 1 repeatedly. The natural numbers are denoted by the letters  $1, 2, 3, 4, 5, \dots$

The natural numbers are closed under addition and multiplication. That is, the sum of two natural numbers is a natural number, and the product of two natural numbers is a natural number.

The natural numbers are not closed under subtraction and division. For example,  $1 - 2$  is not a natural number, and  $1 \div 2$  is not a natural number.

The natural numbers are a subset of the real numbers. The real numbers are denoted by the letter  $\mathbb{R}$ .

SECTION II. THE RATIONAL NUMBERS

ARTICLE I.

ARTICLE II.

ARTICLE III.

The rational numbers are those numbers which can be expressed as the ratio of two integers. The rational numbers are denoted by the letter  $\mathbb{Q}$ .

Nov. 4, 1748, at Back River, Dover, N.H. He and his wife, Abigail, lived on land adjoining that of his nephew, John Drew, son of his brother, Andrew.

The Census of 1790 shows that at that time he had two sons sixteen years old and over, and four sons under sixteen.

The family moved to Wolfeborough, N.H., about 1800 and Jedidiah died there in Jan. 1817. On Feb. 19, 1817, Thomas Stevenson of Wolfeborough was appointed executor of his will, which was made June 17, 1816. (Strafford County Probate Records, Vol. 20, p. 337.) His wife, Abigail, waived provisions made for her in his will, on June 8, 1817. (Vol. 19, p. 451.)

The children, all born at Back River, Dover, N.H., were:

- George, b. 1773, had John, George, Wesley, Harry, Jedidiah and Betsy
16. Lemuel, 1775-1837, was married in 1801 to Polly Warren (1782-1854) daughter of William Cotton Warren (see below) and his wife Dorcas Smith. They had Sally Libby (1801-70), Mary, John Yeaton (1807-64), Daniel, Amosa, Jedidiah, William, Betsey, and Lemuel S. (1821-1907).
- Andrew, b. 1777, had Cyrus, Henry, John, Brigham, William, Eliza and Mary.
- Daniel, b. 1780, had Frank, Mary and Daniel.
17. Jedidiah, b. 1786, see below.
- Enoch, b. 1788, went to sea and never returned.

17. JEDIDIAH DREW (6)

1786-1838

Descent: 14. Jedidiah Drew Abigail --	10. Lemuel Drew Anna Bunker	6. John Drew Rebecca Cook
4. John Drew Sarah --	1. William Drew Elizabeth Mathews

JEDIDIAH DREW, son of Jedidiah and Abigail Drew, was born at Back River, Dover, N.H., in 1786, one of six sons. The family moved to Wolfeborough, N.H., a small town north of Dover on Lake Winnepesaukee, in 1800. Here they became acquainted with the family of William Cotton Warren of Tuftonborough, a nearby village. Jedidiah's older brother, Lemuel, married Polly Warren in 1801.

Jedidiah married Anna Warren in 1806, Polly's younger sister. We believe Anna was born in 1790 in Tuftonborough and was 16 years old when she was married, for she had seven children during the next thirty years.

We believe that Jedidiah and Anna lived in Wolfeborough and that her parents moved there before 1820, for at that time her father, William Cotton Warren, made a declaration for a pension for his service in the Revolutionary War. Her father died soon after this and it is likely that Jedidiah and Anna moved to Charlotte, Vermont, after his death, a village near Lake Champlain, south of Burlington. It is probable that Jedidiah's brother, Lemuel, and Anna's sister, Polly, his wife, had already moved to Burlington, Vt., where their descendants lived for several generations.

1. The first part of the document discusses the importance of maintaining accurate records of all transactions. It emphasizes that this is crucial for the company's financial health and for providing reliable information to stakeholders.

2. The second part of the document outlines the specific procedures for recording transactions. It details the steps from identifying a transaction to entering it into the accounting system, ensuring that all necessary details are captured and verified.

3. The third part of the document discusses the role of internal controls in the recording process. It explains how these controls help to prevent errors and fraud, and how they contribute to the overall integrity of the financial reporting process.

4. The final part of the document provides a summary of the key points discussed and offers some concluding thoughts on the importance of a robust recording system for the company's success.

Jedidiah died May 19, 1838, at the age of 52. He must have been a good Christian, for on his tombstone in the oldest cemetery in Charlotte is the sentence, "Blessed are the dead who died in the Lord."

THE WARREN FAMILY

WILLIAM COTTON WARREN was born in 1752 in Scarborough, Maine, and lived there until 1775, when he enlisted in the Continental army. His military record is given on another page. After his discharge at Fort George, N.Y., in December, 1776, he started homeward. It is likely that bad weather stopped him in central New Hampshire early in 1777.

We know that he was one of the thirteen original settlers at Tuftonborough, N.H., taking up land there prior to 1778, when he was shown on the inventory of the town. He married Dorcas Smith in 1777; she was born in 1753. He was one of the petitioners for the incorporation of the town June 6, 1795. He was clerk of the selectmen there in 1797-98-99, and selectman in 1801 and 1803.

According to the 1790 census they lived at Tuftonborough and at that time had three daughters and two sons (under sixteen). Two of their daughters married into the Drew family, then living in Moultonborough. Before 1820 William Cotton Warren and his wife moved to nearby Moultonborough, and probably died there soon afterwards.

Children:

Polly Warren (1782-1854), m. in 1801 to Lemuel Drew (1775-1837). See #16 above. The family moved to Burlington, Vt., where their descendants lived for several generations, and several are listed in the D.A.R. Lineage books.

Their children:

1. Sally Libby Drew (Atwater) (1804-70)
2. John Ycaton Drew (1808-64)
3. Lemuel S. Drew (1824-1907)

William Warren (1788-1863)

Anna Warren (1790-1850), m. in 1806 to Jedidiah Drew (1786-1838). See #17, preceding page.

WILLIAM COTTON WARREN

Revolutionary War Record

WILLIAM COTTON WARREN was born in 1752 at Scarborough, Maine. He enlisted as a private from Scarborough, Dec. 5, 1775, in Capt. Abraham Tyler's company (the Eighth) in Col. Edmund Phinney's Continental Regiment. He was stationed at Lechmere Point, Cambridge, Mass., until the evacuation of Boston. He was then at Fort Hill, Boston, from March 20, 1776, to Aug. 8, having been promoted to corporal May 1, 1776.

On Aug. 8, 1776, he marched under Gen. Artemus Ward for Lake Champlain, arriving at Mt. Independence, opposite Ft. Ticonderoga, Oct. 28, 1776. On Nov. 20 he was ordered to Lake George and on Nov. 24 to Fort George, N.Y. He remained there until his year of service ended.

On July 11, 1820, while a resident of Moultonborough, N.H., he made declaration for a pension, in which he stated his age as 68 years: that he enlisted from Scarborough, Me., served one year in the regiment commanded by Col. Edmund Phinney and the company commanded by Capt. Abraham Tyler in the Massachusetts line, entering service in Dec., 1775, and being discharged in Jan., 1777.

WILLIAM CHAPMAN DREW, son of Jedidiah and Anna Warren Drew, was born at Wolfeborough, N.H., Jan. 1, 1808. He married Fannie Louise Warner at Nashua, N.H., on May 2, 1832. She was born about 1810, daughter of Sampson and Fanna Brown Warner. Fanna Brown was descended from Josiah Brown and his wife, Prudence Prentice, or Prentiss, by their son Samuel. Josiah Brown graduated from Harvard in 1735 and became a minister at Sterling, Mass.

William and Fannie went to Boston to live. William became a hatmaker and one of his customers was Daniel Webster, whose large head required a special hat block. The family were members of the old South Church of Boston during this time. They had no musical instruments, and William led the congregation in singing with a bugle.

They moved to Worcester, Mass., in 1836, then to Lowell, Mass., in 1840. After two years there they moved to Burlington, Vt., for fifteen years, where several of William's relatives had settled.

In 1857 the family moved to Quincy, Ill., where he managed a hat store until 1861. He enlisted Aug. 20, 1861, in the Union Army, Company B, 50th Illinois Infantry, Quartermaster's Corps. He was 53 years old!

He was in the battles of Ft. Henry, Ft. Donaldson and Shiloh. He was honorably discharged Aug. 24, 1862, because of sickness brought on by exposure at Shiloh.

After his recovery he was in various lines of work until about 1880, when his son Prentiss bought a little place for him and his wife in Omro, Wis., near the home of his brother George. They lived there the last fourteen years of their lives.

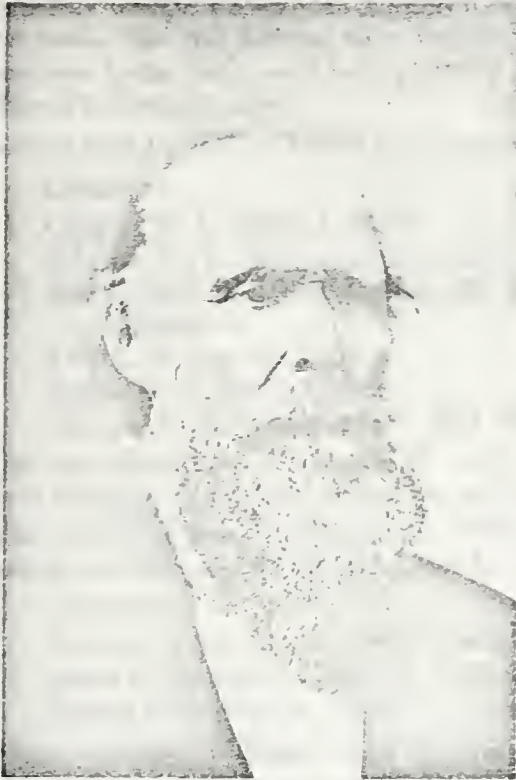

They celebrated their Golden Wedding Anniversary May 2, 1882, at the home of Prentiss in Chicago, with many guests. They enjoyed having their grandchildren visit them. They were active in the Methodist Church.

William was a man of sterling character. He was tall and distinguished looking, with a flowing beard which became snow white in his late years. He was studious and well-informed on a wide range of subjects. He loved hunting and fishing, and gave his grandsons many happy hours tramping through the woods near the Fox River with his handsome old muzzle-loader rifle.

He died at Omro Apr. 27, 1894, at the age of 86, and his devoted wife survived him only a few months.

20. HENRY W. DREW (7) 1833-1909

Descent: same as #18.

HENRY W. DREW, son of Jedidiah and Anna Warren Drew, was born in 1833, probably at Charlotte, Vt. He married Cynthia Spaulding in 1851.

He was a railroad man and became express agent at Montpelier, Vt., a position he held from 1876 to 1906. He was a good business man and was an active and prominent Mason. He was called Hiram by his large circle of friends.

He died in 1909 at Montpelier, Vt., and Cynthia died there in 1912.

WILLIAM FRANCIS (FRANK) DREW, son of William Chapman and Fannie Warner Drew, was born in 1834, probably in Boston, Mass. He married Alice Baxter in 1857, probably just after he and his family had moved to Quincy, Ill. He became a jeweler, and they lived at Morris, Ill., but he died in 1859 at the age of 25.

Child:

23. William Francis, Jr., b. Sept. 1, 1858, Morris, Ill.

22. PRENTISS WARNER DREW (8)

1843-1924

Descent: same as #21.

PRENTISS WARNER DREW, son of William Chapman and Fannie Louise Warner Drew, was born July 8, 1843, at Burlington, Vt. The family moved to Quincy, Ill., in 1857, when he was fifteen years old.

He entered Quincy College to complete his education, but after two years the college closed, because the Civil War had taken so many students. His father had enlisted in the army, his brother Frank had died, and Prentiss was persuaded to remain at home to help support his mother and four sisters. One sister, Harriet, had married and remained in the east.

He became a messenger boy for the Illinois and Mississippi Telegraph Co., Apr. 1, 1861. While Ulysses S. Grant and his forces were camped at West Quincy, Prentiss carried the message from President Lincoln, promoting Grant from the rank of Colonel to Brigadier General.

Prentiss studied telegraphy and in 1862 was appointed telegraph agent of the Quincy and Palmyra R.R., and in 1866 he was assigned to the general offices of the Burlington R.R. at Hannibal, Mo., which had purchased the Quincy line.

He married Anna Elizabeth Evatt Oct. 4, 1866 at Quincy. She was born Dec. 22, 1846 in Lockland, Ohio, daughter of William and Emily Marshall Evatt. Details of the Evatt family appear at the end of this chapter.

In 1869, at the age of twenty-six, Prentiss was made Superintendent of Telegraph for the Hannibal and St. Joe R.R. In 1873 he took a similar position with the Chicago and Eastern Illinois R.R., moved to Chicago and built a home on 67th St., in 1882.

In 1883 he was elected Secretary of the Association of Railway Telegraph Superintendents, a position he held for thirty years.

They lived in Milwaukee from 1893 to 1907, when they returned to Chicago permanently. Prentiss was Superintendent of Telegraph for the "Soo Line" from 1903 until 1913, when he retired.

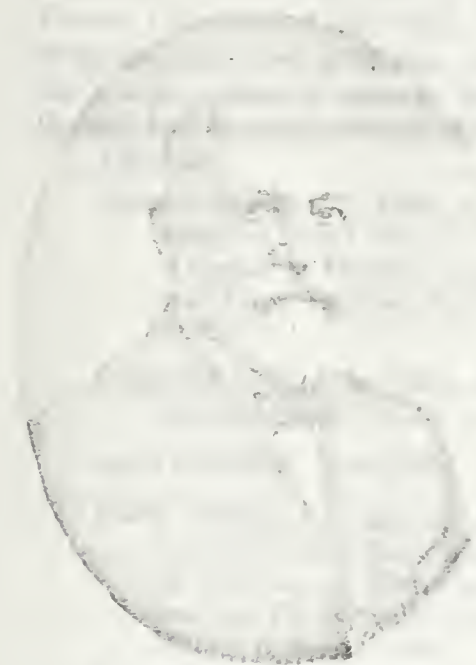

The attractive personal qualities of Prentiss and Anna made them an ideal couple among their friends and a fine example to their family. They were active in the

CHAPTER I
THE EARLY HISTORY OF THE UNITED STATES

The first discovery of the continent of America was made by Christopher Columbus in 1492. He sailed from Spain in search of a westward route to the Indies, and after a long and perilous voyage, he landed on the island of San Salvador in the West Indies.

Columbus's discovery opened the way for European exploration and settlement of the Americas. In 1498, his brother, Vicente Columbus, discovered the mainland of South America. In 1499, Amerigo Vesputi discovered the Gulf of Mexico and the Florida peninsula.

The first permanent European settlement in North America was founded by the Spanish in 1565 at St. Augustine, Florida. Other settlements followed, including Jamestown in 1607 and Plymouth in 1620.

Methodist Church wherever they lived. They celebrated their Golden Wedding anniversary with a family dinner party at the Edgewater Beach Hotel, Chicago, on Oct. 4, 1916. All six of their sons came from the east and west to honor them. Prentiss died March 25, 1924, at Los Angeles, Calif., while visiting his son Daniel. He was 80 years old. Anna died July 19, 1930, at home in Chicago (5302 Glenwood Ave.) She was 83. Both are buried in Memorial Park Cemetery, Evanston.

THE HISTORY OF THE UNITED STATES

The history of the United States is a complex and multifaceted story that spans centuries. It begins with the arrival of the first humans on the continent, followed by the exploration and settlement by European powers. The United States emerged as an independent nation in 1776, and its history is marked by significant events, including the American Revolution, the Civil War, and the rise of the United States as a global superpower.

The early years of the United States were characterized by westward expansion and the search for new lands. The Louisiana Purchase of 1803 and the Texas Annexation of 1845 were major milestones in this process. The discovery of gold in California in 1848 led to the California Gold Rush, which attracted thousands of people to the West. The American Civil War (1861-1865) was a pivotal moment in the nation's history, as it resolved the issue of slavery and preserved the Union.

The late 19th and early 20th centuries saw the United States emerge as a major world power. The Spanish-American War (1898) resulted in the acquisition of territories such as Puerto Rico, Guam, and the Philippines. The United States played a leading role in World War I (1914-1918) and World War II (1939-1945), which solidified its position as a global superpower. The Cold War (1947-1991) followed, as the United States and the Soviet Union vied for global dominance.

The late 20th and early 21st centuries have been marked by significant social and economic changes. The Civil Rights Movement (1950s-1960s) led to the passage of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 and the Voting Rights Act of 1965, which ended legal segregation. The Vietnam War (1955-1975) and the Watergate scandal (1972-1974) were major events of the era. The United States has continued to play a leading role in global affairs, and its history remains a subject of ongoing study and debate.

1. The first part of the document discusses the importance of maintaining accurate records of all transactions and activities. It emphasizes that this is essential for ensuring transparency and accountability in the organization's operations.

2. The second part of the document outlines the various methods and tools used to collect and analyze data. It highlights the need for consistent and reliable data collection processes to ensure the validity of the findings.

3. The third part of the document describes the results of the data analysis and the key findings. It notes that the data indicates a significant trend in the market, which has implications for the organization's strategy.

4. The fourth part of the document discusses the implications of the findings and provides recommendations for future actions. It suggests that the organization should focus on improving its internal processes to better align with the market trends.

5. The fifth part of the document concludes the report and summarizes the main points. It reiterates the importance of ongoing monitoring and evaluation to ensure the organization remains competitive in a dynamic market.

6. The sixth part of the document provides a detailed breakdown of the data used in the analysis. It includes a table showing the distribution of data points across different categories and time periods.

7. The seventh part of the document discusses the limitations of the study and the potential for future research. It acknowledges that the data is based on a specific sample and may not be representative of the entire population.

The first part of the document discusses the importance of maintaining accurate records of all transactions. It emphasizes that proper record-keeping is essential for the integrity of the financial system and for the ability to detect and prevent fraud. The text also mentions the need for regular audits and the role of independent auditors in ensuring the reliability of the data.

In addition, the document highlights the significance of transparency and accountability in financial reporting. It states that stakeholders, including investors and the public, have a right to know how their money is being managed and what the results are. This requires the implementation of robust internal controls and the adoption of international best practices for financial reporting.

The document also addresses the challenges faced by organizations in the digital age, particularly regarding data security and privacy. It notes that as more financial data is stored and processed electronically, the risk of cyberattacks and data breaches increases. Therefore, it is crucial for organizations to invest in advanced security technologies and to implement strict data protection policies.

Furthermore, the document discusses the impact of global economic trends and market volatility on financial performance. It suggests that organizations should adopt a more proactive approach to risk management, identifying potential risks early and developing strategies to mitigate them. This includes diversification of investments and the use of financial derivatives to hedge against market fluctuations.

The document also touches upon the role of technology in transforming the financial industry. It mentions that fintech innovations, such as blockchain and artificial intelligence, are reshaping traditional financial services. While these technologies offer significant benefits, they also pose new challenges, such as regulatory compliance and the need for a skilled workforce.

In conclusion, the document stresses that the future of finance lies in the integration of technology, sound governance, and a commitment to ethical values. Organizations must embrace change and innovation while maintaining the highest standards of integrity and transparency. Only through these efforts can they ensure long-term success and contribute to the overall stability and growth of the global economy.

The document concludes with a call to action for all stakeholders to work together to address the challenges ahead. It encourages governments to create a supportive regulatory environment, industry associations to promote self-regulation, and individual organizations to take responsibility for their actions. By doing so, we can build a more resilient and trustworthy financial system for the future.

Descent: 22. Prentiss Warner Drew Anna Elizabeth Evatt	18. William Chapman Drew Fannie Louise Warner
17. Jedidiah Drew Anna Warren	14. Jedidiah Drew Abigail —	10. Lemuel Drew Anna Bunker
6. John Drew Rebecca Cook	4. John Drew Sarah —	1. William Drew Elizabeth Mathews

ELBERT GRANVILLE DREW, son of Prentiss Warner and Anna Evatt Drew, was born Nov. 1, 1867, at Hannibal, Mo. The family moved to Chicago when he was 11 years old.

He married Harriet Elizabeth Stebbins Nov. 8, 1888, in Chicago. She was born Dec. 4, 1866, daughter of Solomon Johnson and Emma Jones Stebbins of Chicago, her father a pioneer hardware merchant in Chicago from 1860 on.

They lived in Danville, Ill., for a year, then returned to Chicago, and Elbert started his career at the Illinois Bell Telephone Co. in 1890, as a stenographer. In 1900 he became Assistant Auditor, then Auditor, then in 1920 he was made Secretary and Assistant Treasurer, a position he held until his retirement in 1927, at the age of 60.

He was a man of many interests and abilities. He loved music and played the violin. He built boats and a summer cottage at White Lake, Mich., where he became Commodore of the Yacht Club for two seasons about 1914. He took up the study of oil painting in 1916, helped establish the Bell Picture Makers Club and later helped form the Business Men's Art Club of Chicago in 1920. He was its president the first three years and the club had 170 members actively interested in art.

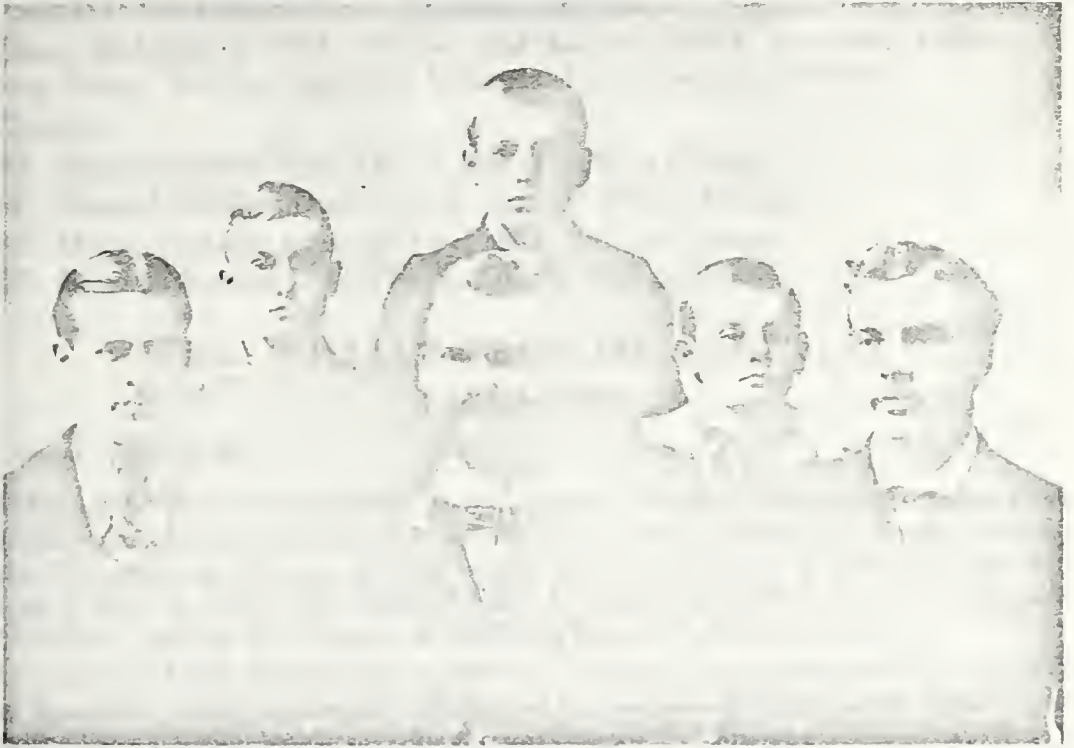

He was elected president of the Municipal Art League of Chicago in 1923 and later served as a director. He helped establish art clubs for business men in other cities, which became affiliated into the Associated Amateur Art Clubs of America. He became president of this organization in 1927.

Many of his paintings were exhibited at private galleries and at the Art Institute. Many were sold and rented. After his retirement he spent all his time in art work, traveled in this country and in Europe painting.

Elbert and Harriet were active in church work at the Auburn Park Methodist

1870-1930

Descent: same as #24.

WILLIAM PRENTISS DREW, second son of Prentiss Warner and Anna Evatt Drew, was born Jan. 1, 1870, at Hannibal, Mo. He received an A.B. degree from the University of Chicago in 1897, where he was a member of Delta Upsilon and won a letter in track. He received his B.D. degree in 1899 at Drew Theological Seminary, and his M.A. degree at the University of California in 1903.

He married Edith Bickel July 5, 1899 at Chicago. She was born May 9, 1874 at Hamilton, Ontario, daughter of Harriet Louise and William James Bickel, who at the time was the American consul from Canada to Chicago.

Prentiss became both a minister and a professor. He was professor of Latin and Greek at Willamette University, Salem, Ore., from 1899 to 1906. Then he became professor of Latin at Knox College, Galesburg, Ill., a post he held until his death in 1930. His memory was honored at Knox College in 1953, when one of the new men's dormitories was named for him, one of four Great Teachers so honored.

He served as pastor of three churches, one of them the East Main Street Congregational Church. He was the author of an edition of the Gospel of St. Mark in Greek, with notes and vocabulary, which has been widely used in schools and colleges.

He supported many law enforcement and reform measures, and once ran for Mayor of Galesburg. He introduced the Boy Scout organization there. Other interests were music and sports. He and his family spent nearly a year in Europe in 1925-26.

He died Oct. 30, 1930 at Southgate, Calif., while on a leave of absence for his health. Burial was in Galesburg. Edith Bickel Drew maintains the family home (1962) at 142 Garfield Ave., Galesburg, and enjoys frequent visits with her children and grandchildren.

26. CHARLES VERNER DREW (9)

1872-1937

Descent: same as #24.

CHARLES VERNER DREW, third son of Prentiss Warner and Anna Evatt Drew, was born Oct. 1, 1872 at Hannibal, Mo. He left high school at the age of 15 and went to work for the Ill. Steel Co., Chicago, then for the Badger Mining Co., at Ouray, Colo.

He became interested in mining and engineering and determined to get a college education. He entered the University of Chicago in 1895, made up his high school deficiencies, worked for his tuition, became a member of Delta Kappa Epsilon, majored in Chemistry and Geology, and received his B.S. degree in 1899.

He married Blanche Sarah King Dec. 31, 1900 at Minneapolis, Minn. He worked for several mining companies for a short time. Dr. H. Foster Bain, who later became head of the Bureau of Mines in Washington, D.C., and Mr. Frank Klepiko, of Anaconda and later Cerro de Pasco Mining Companies, were instrumental in furthering his career.

He entered the Michigan College of Mines at Houghton, Mich., in 1902 and completed a special course in 20 months.

He became associated with the Cerro de Pasco Mining Co., in 1904 and soon became office manager, then second vice president and finally executive vice president of the Company, a director of the company, the Cerro de Pasco Railway in Peru, and the U.S. Metals Refining Co.

He was a member of the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers; the Mining and Metallurgical Society; Council of the Pan American Society of New York; Group Committee for Peru of the Pan American Union, Washington, D.C., and was listed in Who's Who in America.

His hobby was golf and he was an excellent player. He belonged to Sleepy Hollow Country Club at Scarborough on the Hudson, N.Y. and the family lived at the club for many years. Later they bought Ichabod Farm, a beautiful place near Scarborough with a 200 year old farm house, which they remodelled and made into a luxurious home.

Charles died in 1937 at Boston, Mass., following an operation. Blanche and her family moved to Ossining, N.Y., where she died Mar. 14, 1956. Both are buried at Mt. Auburn Cemetery, Cambridge, Mass.

ELIZABETH HARRIET DREW, daughter of Charles Verner and Blanche King Drew, was born Jan. 8, 1904 at Houghton, Mich., where her father had just won his degree as a Mining Engineer at the Michigan College of Mines.

She graduated from Vassar College in 1924, where she majored in English and Economics and was interested in Play-directing. She traveled extensively, then worked in a book shop and eventually had one of her own in New York City.

She married H. Charles Tomlinson March 21, 1930. He was the son of the English author, H. M. Tomlinson, of London, and was a representative of Harper & Brothers, Publishers. They lived in New York and London, but returned to the U.S. before the birth of their son, Charles Drew Tomlinson, in 1932. Mr. Tomlinson went back to England before his son was born. Elizabeth obtained a divorce in Reno, Nev., in Sept., 1939 and had her name legally changed to Mrs. Elizabeth Harriet Drew and her son's to Charles Verner Drew, II.

They lived with her parents at the Hotel Barclay, N.Y., and later at Ichabod Farm, Sleepy Hollow Rd., Scarborough, N.Y. Later she and her mother and Charles moved to Underhill Rd., Ossining, N.Y. Her father died in 1937 and her mother in 1956.

She and Charles moved to New York City in 1958, and in 1960 they acquired two cooperative apartments at 70 East 10th St., where they now live. They traveled in Europe in 1962 and Spain in 1963.

She taught in Scotland in 1958-59 as an exchange teacher under the Fulbright Act, then at Cartagena, Colombia from 1960 to 1962. She attended the University of San Marcos in Peru in the summer of 1961, and traveled through South America. She returned in 1962 and is teaching at LaJolla, Calif.
